Captain MacIntosh and Commandant Fitzmaurice Return to Land Four Hours After Start.

ACTION IS FORCED BY 50-MILE WIND

Plane and Fliers Escape Uninjured—Failure Believed Likely To End Ocean Hops for Year.

BY GEORGE MACDONAGH.
Dublin, September 16.—(United News).—The gray fog over the north Atlantic, which, reinforced by a steady westerly wind, rears itself like a woolly wall in the path, tonight turned back the latest plane to attempt a flight from Europe to America.

Captain R. H. MacIntosh and Commandant James Fitzmaurice started at 1:34 p. m. to fly from Baldonnel air field, Dublin, to New York in the Fokker monoplane in which Van Lear Black, publisher of The Baltimore Sun, made his round-trip aerial yachting cruise to the East Indies—a sister ship of the ill-fated St. Raphael and Old Glory.

Two hours later they passed over Galway bay and headed out to sea, flying low into the fog that hovered off the coast awaiting them.

Encounter 50-Mile Wind.

Through the fog the plane flew out to sea for 300 miles along the path from which the St. Raphael, and the earlier French White Bird plunged to death, and upon which two German planes turned back just in time a few weeks ago.

The fog brought up its reinforcements, and MacIntosh and Fitzmaurice, in their Fokker monoplane Princess Xenia—named after the wife of William B. Leeds, chief backer of the flight—found themselves flying into the teeth of a 50-mile an hour wind.

It was suicide to continue; there was nothing but certain death before them; and the aviators turned back.

They regained the coast over the mouth of the River Shannon, around 5:30—four hours after their start—and circled, looking for a landing place and shooting signal rockets from their Vercy pistol in hope that lights would be shown to indicate a landing place.

They threw overboard 250 gallons of gasoline to give them buoyancy. At 7:30 they landed, near Ballyhannon, on the western coast of County Kerry where the Shannon joins the sea, and went first to a hotel, and then to a hotel.

This no man yet can say that he has flown the Atlantic from east to west.

The White Bird and the St. Raphael started to do it and disappeared.

All Turn Back.

Two German planes, the Princess Xenia, and the French plane that started, but did not even get as far as Ireland, all have turned back.

There is general thankfulness here that the Princess Xenia's flight has not ended in tragedy.

Everyone said the aviators could not make it; the winds are usually blowing from west to east, and at this season they are getting stronger and the cold fog is getting thicker.

Many people who saw the plane start off—MacIntosh, swallowing a piece of candy, with a nonchalant "Ta, ta; I'm off"—feared that they, like others, never would be seen again.

It is taken for granted that this

EX-PASTOR CLAIMS ALIBI IN KIDNAPING

No Trace Found of Dr. Jordan, Who Mysteriously Disappeared From Columbus Home.

Columbus, Ga., September 16.—(AP) With the whereabouts of Dr. Willis T. Jordan, pastor of the Second Avenue Methodist Church, North, still a mystery, Rev. A. V. Noble, his deposed predecessor, who is held on a kidnapping charge, tonight made his first statement to newspaper men, emphatically denying any knowledge or connection with the disappearance of the minister.

Noble was arrested at noon Thursday and he had been held incommunicado, but police tonight complied with a request of newspaper men to be allowed to talk to the prisoner.

Noble is held in connection with the disappearance last Wednesday night of Jordan, a short time after he had held a prayer service at the church, of which he had been pastor about a week. He and his wife were about to enter the front gate of their home when they were accosted by two men who told the pastor they wished to talk to him about church affairs.

Mrs. Jordan proceeded into the house and shortly afterward noticed her husband walking down the street with the two men. He has not been seen or heard of since then.

Noble tonight was found to be quite willing to talk to newspaper men. He first described condition in the church, of which he was formerly pastor, as being "in a mess."

He expressed fear for the result the recent developments would have upon the health of his wife, who, he said, is quite ill. He asserted that $750 in salary is now due him and that the amounts that have been paid him would hardly pay the light bills.

With reference to the alleged abduction of Jordan, the prisoner maintained absolute innocence of any connection with the affair. He stated that he had never heard anyone discuss anything relative to any inconvenience whatever to the new pastor. Not only did he deny any connection with the case, but he said he had professed a feeling of sympathy toward the new pastor, because he knew of the conditions that he would face at the church.

In his statement to the newspapermen, Noble set up a complete alibi with reference to the disappearance of Jordan, asserting that he was at a hotel at West Point Wednesday night, after having conferred with church officials at Fairfax, Ala., that afternoon with reference to making connections with a church at that place.

City and private detectives have been working on the case since the disappearance of Jordan, but no more arrests had been made tonight.

On behalf of France, Paul Boncour, her chief delegate, offered her proposal today. It provides:

Increased security by coordination and generalization of regional security and arbitration treaties—those between groups of neighboring states for their collective security.

Preparation for systematic enforcement of all articles of the League of Nations covenant.

Revival of the principles of the Geneva protocol, but with a more business-like arrangement for mutual assistance among league members in the event they are attacked.

France wants to have her project adopted by the league's disarmament commission and presented to the assembly along with a general land disarmament plan, so that both can be acted upon at the same time.

Under that proposal, however, each nation would fix its own minimum armament levels.

The French argue that disarmament is impossible until security against attack is guaranteed each nation, and that their new plan will guarantee such security.

France believes that the league first should do everything possible to outlaw war, and secondly to insure adequate protection to any nation that may be attacked.

POLICEMAN SLAIN AS BANDITS LOCK VICTIMS IN GRAVE

One Suspect Held by New York Police in Probe of Odd Robbery in Cemetery.

New York, September 16.—(United News).—Two women were frightened into hysteria by being locked in a cemetery vault and a policeman was shot to death today in one of the oddest robberies on record.

Patrolman Henry E. Meyer, of the Glendale precinct, Queens, died in a hospital an hour after he was shot three times by two men he accosted as suspects.

One of the suspects in the robbery was later arrested by Meyer's fellow patrolmen of the Glendale station. He had fresh bloodstains on his shirt and collar.

Lock Women in Vault.

The women, Mrs. Hannah Lewis and Mrs. Nellie Novack, both of Manhattan, identified him as one of the two men who a few minutes earlier robbed them of $56 and locked them in a vault with the dead.

Police described the suspect, Benjamin Roeder, as a former convict.

Patrolman Meyer was off duty and driving past the Beth Elahin cemetery with his wife in his automobile when they were halted by blood-curdling screams. The policeman leaped out of the car and ran into the cemetery.

The shrieks were coming from a vault. There Meyer saw two women beating against the grilled door from the inside.

In some manner he managed to open the vault door. The women ran out on the lawn, clapping on the terrified grass in each other's arms. They told their story of being robbed by two men and pointed out which way they had gone.

Meyer hastily drove his car in the direction indicated and overtook two men.

Only Meyer alighted to question them when one of them opened fire. Meyer turned his right side to the flashing revolver muzzle. A shot pierced his back and came out through his chest. Two more shots entered his back before he fell.

Police said the women were positive Roeder was one of the two men who took $16 from Mrs. Novack and $40 from Mrs. Lewis. Roeder was described as having a long prison record and as having been released just ten days ago from the Clinton prison at Dannemora, N. Y.

He said his companion was "a man named Connors."

Thrust Into Vault.

Ms. Lewis and Mrs. Novack, sisters, were paying a visit to the vault of their father when the two high-walkers popped up from behind a tombstone. They snatched them with revolvers the men robbed them and then thrust them into the vault where lay the body of Abraham Lipschutz.

The iron door clanged shut. The women, clapping on the terrified grass in each other's arms, they also said the robbers had stripped them of diamond rings valued at $2,500.

REGIONAL PACTS URGED BY FRANCE

New Project To Guarantee Security To Nations Against Attack Proposed To League.

BY HENRY WOOD.
(United News Staff Correspondent.)
Geneva, September 16.—A new, ambitious project to guarantee security to nations against attack was being studied tonight by delegates to the League of Nations assembly.

On behalf of France, Paul Boncour, her chief delegate, offered her proposal today. It provides:

Increased security by coordination and generalization of regional security and arbitration treaties—those between groups of neighboring states for their collective security.

Preparation for systematic enforcement of all articles of the League of Nations covenant.

Revival of the principles of the Geneva protocol, but with a more business-like arrangement for mutual assistance among league members in the event they are attacked.

Commissioners Order All Construction Stopped When Further Loans Are Denied.

$200,000 LACKING TO FINISH WORK

Blocked in their efforts to secure further loans from member banks of the Atlanta Clearing House association, the Fulton county commissioners Friday afternoon ordered all paving work in the county indefinitely called off.

This order affects a number of important road projects, including Habersham road, Howell Mill road, Constitution road, and streets in East Point, College Park, Hapeville and Garden Hills.

The county lacked $200,000 for road paving work until 1927 taxes are collected, and asked the local banks for the money, all but the $200,000.

Fourth National agreeing to the loan, it was stated at the meeting by George M. Hope, chairman of the finance committee.

In a resolution adopted by the commission the department of public works is ordered to suspend for an indefinite period all paving jobs now engaged upon, the order affecting some $500,000 worth of county paving.

A. A. Clarke, superintendent and warden of the department of public works, notified the commissioners of the order immediately.

County convict labor will be used for working the quarries and for grading and right-of-way clearing work where no material is needed, it was stated. Members of the commission said that the county already has been in a financial straits for this year far in excess of any year in the history of Fulton county, and that with the refusal of the clearing house to loan the $200,000, the county will be $545,000 better off than at this time last year, as there is a total of $620,000 in anticipated revenue in excess of last year.

Mr. Hope said that he visited the Atlanta & Lowry National bank, the Atlanta Trust company, the Citizens & Southern National bank, and the Fulton National bank, and that these institutions agreed to the loan, but that the move to borrow the money was blocked when the Fourth National bank refused to assume its pro rata share of the loan.

The Fourth National bank advised him that the county had already borrowed $1,300,000 this year on anticipated returns, and that at the first of the year the bank had agreed to loan the county $1,000,000.

Mr. Hope said the loan at this time last year was $1,500,000.

As explained by members of the commission, the county is in a financial straits from the time of its organization has been to borrow money during the year to meet bills, repaying the loan when the returns for the year are collected. The commission always meets in September, under the law, and fixes a tax rate to raise money to pay off all bills for the current year. This practice is said to have come about through what is known as the old agricultural loan, when farmers borrowed money for their spring plantings and repaid the money in the fall.

A constitutional amendment is to be presented to the people in November of next year which will give the county the right to borrow money where it pleases. This will mean that the county can borrow money at low interest rates, and can obtain funds from other sources when the local banks refuse loans, it was stated.

Ruth Elder Now Confesses

FIRST A "TERRIBLE MISTAKE" SHE SAYS

Two Matrimonial Ventures

New York, September 16.—(United News).—Miss Ruth Elder's husbands piled up Friday while her chances for a flight to Paris diminished.

The pretty Miss Elder admitted that she had fibbed a bit when she said La, La, she's never been engaged.

In one burst of confidence, she acknowledged lawful and legal wedlock of two years' standing with Lyle Womack, of Lakeland, Fla.

In another she acknowledged that before becoming Mrs. Womack she had ventured once before into wedlock, only to find that it was a terrible mistake. Miss Elder refused to name the terrible mistake, and asked reporters not to pry further into a closed chapter in her life.

They had been pretty insistent, she said, in prying her about Womack, when she feared that adverse comment would be created in the south by a married woman flying around to Paris and other places instead of staying at home.

Miss Elder said further: "I am employed as an assistant and office keeper by a dentist in Lakeland, and I use my maiden name there. Even at home I am known as Miss Elder, though the people in our building know that I am married. Furthermore, I have no interest in publicity, and this flight to Paris is not a stunt."

It developed during the day that Miss Elder has no federal pilot's license. Without that, it is understood, even a beauty contest winner would not be permitted to fly to Paris as a co-pilot, Walter R. Jones, inspector employed by the department of commerce, told the aviatrix that she would be obliged to fly alone for ten hours, after passing a physical examination and a written test, before she would be given the license.

Relief Promised as City Sizzles Under Torrid Wave Which Blankets Entire Southland.

107 IS REACHED AT AMERICUS, GA.

Blazing down on a sweltering people out of a clear sky, the sun Friday afternoon set a new Atlanta high temperature mark for 1927 with the thermometer reading 97 degrees from 2 to 3 p. m. For the third successive day a new high record has been set. Wednesday's 96-degree mark fell Thursday when the mercury reached 96.8 before it started downward.

The hottest day in the year for Atlanta Friday was tempered somewhat by the low humidity, reading 20 per cent. September's average humidity is 65 per cent. This reading made the warmth less noticeable.

But Atlanta's 97 degrees pale beside the scorching Americus, Ga., reported with a torrid and blistering all-time record of 107 degrees Friday, which led the nation. This city also reported two 105-degree days this week.

Mobile, Ala., registered 101 degrees, and Old Sol celebrated a victory over a record in that city which has stood for 56 years, the history of the weather bureau there.

Friday's Atlanta temperatures were: Midnight 83
6 a. m. 79
7 a. m. 78
8 a. m. 82
9 a. m. 88
10 a. m. 91
11 a. m. 92
Noon 96
1 p. m. 97
2 p. m. 97
3 p. m. 97
4 p. m. 96
5 p. m. 94
6 p. m. 92
7 p. m. 90

The forecast for Atlanta and the state of Georgia for today is fair weather and continued warm, slightly moderating in the middle of the day. Temperatures are not expected to be as high as prevailed Friday.

A bit of optimism was offered by the local meteorologist when he said that agricultural benefits to be derived from the dry and hot spell far outweigh the disadvantages and discomforts. The boll weevil has had hard sleighing during the spell and cotton and corn are both maturing rapidly. September's rainfall to date is 4.6 in. in excess of normal.

The entire south apparently, baked and broiled under the temperate Friday sun. Americus, Ga., it seemed, led the nation with its 107 degrees, but Columbus, Ga., again reported 104 for two days in a row. Macon marked up a high of 98.2 and all of Alabama reported 92 degrees Friday.

Montgomery reached 101.4, Birmingham and Mobile were satisfied with an end to introduce a bill directly specifying that no such price reports shall be made on any farm products. Secretary Jardine, the senator said, replied to a question in the department yesterday and asked a person in the agricultural economics bureau the direct question and was told that cotton was going down. I find others in the department who are expecting cotton to go up and said so.

"The harm is done. The statement has cost the south $300,000,000. And last two issues have price predictions been made."

"As soon as congress meets I intend to introduce a bill directly specifying that no such price reports shall be made on any farm products. The bill will prohibit any prediction or discussion of prices and will require Demands Instant Dismissal of Government Employees Causing South Loss of $90,000,000.

Under the law there is no authority for cotton price predictions from the department of agriculture, according to Senator William J. Harris, of Georgia, who said Friday that he had asked Secretary Jardine to discharge the persons responsible for the statement attributed Thursday to the federal bureau of agricultural economics, predicting a decline in cotton prices.

In this movement it is believed that Senator Harris will have the support of the entire Georgia congressional delegation, as three other members of the lawmaking bodies Friday, wired their protests and requested an exhaustive investigation to fix the blame for the report and summarily discipline the officials responsible.

The senator, in answer to an inquiry from The Constitution, stated further that he intended to introduce a bill directly specifying that no such price reports shall be made on any farm products. Secretary Jardine, the senator said, replied to a question in the department yesterday and asked a person in the agricultural economics bureau the direct question and was told that cotton was going down. ARREST ORDERED IN COTTON THEFT

A bench warrant was issued Friday for the arrest of John F. Tarpley, manager of the Consolidated Company warehouse at Carrollton, following the return of an indictment Thursday by the federal grand jury charging removal of storage cotton for personal usage.

This is the first indictment made here under the federal warehouse act of 1926, providing for the licensing and bonding of warehouses receiving agricultural products for storage and delivery and had charge of the custody where storage commodities may have been converted to personal gain.

Conviction under this statute provides maximum penalties of a year in prison and a fine of $10,000.

As general manager, it is contended that Tarpley issued receipts on delivery and had charge of the custody where storage commodities may have been converted to personal gain.

Although a fire is said to have partially destroyed the books at the warehouse on July 5, the day on which a federal agent arrived for a final investigation, considerable evidence in the case had been previously setting up a misdemeanor offense in accordance to federal officers here.

Under the federal act, warehouses are bonded according to space and commodity value ratings against any possible loss to the customer. Federal agents here have attacked no blame to the Consolidated company, alleging the matter to have been a case of "misplaced confidence."

Charge Against Ruth For Assault Fails

New York, September 16.—(AP)—A charge of assault brought against George Herman ("Babe") Ruth, slugging Yankee outfielder, by a man who asserted Ruth had attacked him on Broadway, was dismissed today.

The man, Niemyer, had a sketch pad, a pencil and copious notes. He jumped to his feet time and again to gesticulate as he described the alleged assault.

After the first hearing Ruth said he was sorry for Niemyer, but that he was in Garfield, N. J., at the time of the alleged assault. He produced witnesses to corroborate this.

BROKEN PROMISE LAID TO COURT

Dry Leader Says He Was Informed by Senator Watson He Would Be Let Off With Fine.

Indianapolis, Ind., September 16.—(AP)—The Indianapolis Star will publish a story tomorrow morning declaring that charges recently published by a local newspaper against Senator Arthur R. Robinson, of Indiana, that he endeavored to influence for political consideration, a decision of the Indiana supreme court are based on letters that were exchanged between E. S. Shumaker, superintendent of the Indiana Anti-Saloon league, and Senator Robinson, in August, 1926. Shumaker recently was given a 60-day sentence on the state farm for contempt of court.

The letters concerned the case then pending in the supreme court when Shumaker was brought before the court by Attorney General Arthur L. Gilliom. Gilliom charged Shumaker with making contemptuous statements about certain members of the supreme court.

In the letters which the Indianapolis Star says Shumaker wrote to Senator Robinson, Shumaker asked him to make a statement on his case until after the election of that year, and then would only fine him. Senator Watson's letter of reply denies that this was said and declared that Shumaker misunderstood him. Senator Watson in his letter does say, however, that Senator Robinson came to him at Washington and asked him to do what he could to prevent Shumaker from being sent to jail.

In a statement tonight Shumaker said the did call on Senator Robinson for the purpose of having his case settled immediately and prevent the contempt case from being held as a cloud over his head during the campaign in which several supreme court judgeships were being contested. Shumaker declared that Senator Watson had told him that he had agreed with Shumaker and that they gave a statement that there would be no jail sentence.

SENATOR ROBINSON EXPLAINS POSITION.

Indianapolis, Ind., September 16.—(AP)—A statement tonight from Senator Arthur R. Robinson, in connection with charges that he attempted to influence the Indiana supreme court in the contempt case of E. S. Shumaker, superintendent of the Indiana Anti-Saloon league, declared that Robinson's interest in the case was to express his sympathy for Dr. Shumaker.

The Robinson statement follows: "The only conversation with Senator Watson at Washington concerning the Shumaker case was to express my sincere sympathy for Dr. Shumaker and to discuss its effects on the republican party."

Early in August, 1926, Dr. Shumaker came to my home and said substance that while he did not desire to influence the decision of the court he would like to have it decide his case as early as possible.

"I told him that I could do nothing in the matter and he asked me if I would call Senator Watson (James E. Watson, senior Indiana senator) and tell him how he felt. This I did and after reaching the senator I asked him to talk to Shumaker personally. He did this, and of course, I do not know what conversation took place between them."

SOUTH'S PROTEST OVER PREDICTIONS STIRS OFFICIALS

Longest Cabinet Meeting Since Coolidge Took Office Caused by Storm of Objections.

PRESIDENT LEAVES JARDINE IN CHARGE

Coolidge Regards Predictions by U. S. Department as Hazardous.

Washington, September 16.—(AP)—Precipitating the longest cabinet session since President Coolidge took office, the south's protest against the government report, which yesterday sent the cotton market tumbling $6.50 a bale, resulted today in an order from Secretary Jardine prohibiting future predictions of price trends by department of agriculture officials.

The cabinet session, which lasted more than two hours, was followed by announcement late in the day at the white house that Mr. Coolidge regards as hazardous predictions by government departments on the possible trend of prices.

However, it was said, the chief executive will leave the handling of the cotton situation to the department of agriculture.

Mr. Jardine remained with the president long after others of the official family had departed, and then went back to his office to rescind a statement to the press which had been prepared before the cabinet meeting and held for release on his return.

It was replaced by a statement announcing the secretary's decision. The original statement, which did not reach the public, made no reference to future policy, merely outlining conditions under which the bureau of agricultural economics report of yesterday was made and insisting that the "widespread quotations of a statement to the press, which unduly disturbed the speculative market."

Jardine's Statement.

"The secretary issued this statement after the cabinet meeting. The statement on the price situation for cotton—which received unusual attention in the cotton markets yesterday—was based upon statistics representing production, consumption and the prospective supply to price. It was not a special price forecast. Similar statements on the price situation for the major farm commodities have been prepared monthly for two years in the department for the aid of farmers in planning their marketing and production programs."

"The fundamental factors affecting the cotton situation as outlined in September reports were recognized a month ago when the department noted the same general conditions and made a similar statement of the probable trend of prices. The widespread quotation of a part of the statement, in my opinion, has unduly disturbed the speculative market. There have been no important developments since the issuance of a similar statement a month ago except the last cotton crop

Woman Who Claims To Be Jack Wilson's Wife Held at Marietta

Marietta, Ga., September 16.—(Special.)—A woman giving her name as Hazel Strickland and who, according to Cobb county officers, says she is the wife of Jack Wilson, alleged slayer of W. H. Cheek, grocer, of Peachtree road, Atlanta, is held in the county jail here in connection with a disturbance at a filling station here early today.

Warrants for the Wilson girl and M. C. Small, T. J. Small and J. U. Power were sworn out after Richard Dobbins, an employee of Pylant's garage, had been struck with a wrench, during an altercation with one of the men.

The automobile containing the three men, the Wilson woman, Mickey Moran, of Miami, and Lois Freeman, giving her address as 552 North Jackson street, Atlanta, rolled up to the garage shortly after midnight Thursday night. One of the girls went into the office and engaged in conversation with Dobbins, it is said. One of the Smalls got out of the car and objected to the conversation, a fight following soon after, according to witnesses.

Members of the party say that they were on the way from Birmingham to Charlotte. The Smalls claim to live in Michigan, and Power says that his home is in Atlanta.

The Strickland woman is quoted as saying that she does not believe Jack Wilson will ever be caught in connection with the Cheek slaying, saying that "he is too slick for them."

LEGION ANNOUNCES NEW POST FORMED

Announcement of the organization of a new American Legion post at Fayetteville, with N. H. Kelly as commander and S. L. Sams as adjutant, featured the weekly luncheon of Atlanta post in the Henry Grady hotel Friday.

B. P. Gambrell, vice commander for the department of Georgia and chairman of the executive committee of Atlanta post, and Evan P. Howell, of the Atlanta post, assisted in the organization. State Commander Asa Warren Candler announced that the Fayetteville post is the third formed this summer under the new state program for "a post in every county and an auxiliary in every post," the others being at Butler and Nashville, making a total of 81 in the state.

Dr. Herbert B. Kennedy, legionnaire and president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, was the principal speaker at the luncheon, describing the legion's growth as an influence for civic progress.

INCREASE IN AIR DEFENSE IS URGED

Washington, September 16.—(AP)—Material strengthening of the air defense at Hawaii and the canal zone was held advisable today by acting Chairman James, of the house military committee, who returned to the capital after an extended inspection trip that included more than a score of posts there and in continental United States.

He said he was convinced the present army aviation building program should be expanded by congress to meet a situation considerably changed by the Atlantic flights of Lindbergh, Chamberlin, Byrd and others, and the spanning of the stretch between the Pacific coast and Hawaii by both army and private planes.

Enlargement of Wheeler field and the establishment of another field near Honolulu are considered necessary by the house member, who also feels that Albrook field at Panama is too small.

James said the army authorities in Hawaii agreed that the most substantial and effective defense of the islands was from the air, and that

DEAD, 2 BURNED IN $50,000 FIRE

New Orleans, September 16.—(AP)—One man was dead and two others severely burned today as the result of a fire last night which destroyed property valued at $50,000.

Clement Harris, 18, died last night, two hours after he ran from the building with his clothes covered by flames.

P. P. Desmond, 38, and Newton Broome, 39, the other two burned, probably will recover.

The fire is believed to have started from an explosion in the Industrial Armature Works, located on a downtown street. Harris, who was working in the rear of the establishment, is thought to have ignited a keg of varnish with an oxyacetylene torch.

Albert Morales, a policeman, jumping from a street car when he heard the explosion and reached the scene in time to throw several sheets about Harris who had rushed from the building. His body was almost charred and he died soon after reaching a hospital.

Desmond and Broome, who darted out other doors of the building were rushed to a hospital by passing motorists.

An adjoining building also was damaged.

Harold Whitney, BRIDE IS FOUND STAGE ACTRESS

New York, September 16.—(AP)—It is revealed here that the bride of Harold Leroy Whitney, millionaire clubman and polo player, was Miss Phoebe Foster, actress.

The couple procured a marriage license Monday, when the actress gave her real name, Angeline Egar. She refused to have her picture taken at All Souls Unitarian church, where the ceremony took place that night, and revealed later that she had hoped to avoid recognition.

Germany's Policy Declared Based On Locarno Pact

Geneva, Switzerland, September 16.—(AP)—Occupation of German soil nine years after the end of the world war is hardly calculated to aid as German state of mind toward the work of the League of Nations.

Dr. Gustav Stresemann, German foreign minister, declared today before an assemblage of about 200 correspondents representing the press of all nations.

Nevertheless, he insisted that Germany's foreign policy was based absolutely on the underlying principles of the Locarno pacts and the League of Nations.

Stresemann said that the League of Nations was not looking backward but forward to world reconstruction based upon peace and cooperation.

Not Question for League.

Answering a question by the representative of a French nationalist newspaper, Dr. Stresemann said that Germany had no present intention of raising the question of the Rhineland occupation before the League of Nations, because he hoped and believed that the question could be regulated satisfactorily by scattered negotiations between the Locarno powers.

Dr. Stresemann said that it was too much to expect that the 63,000,000 German people would all have the same views, but warned his hearers against the danger of trying to interpret Germany from abroad from opinions expressed by scattered groups of Germans, including what he called "the group of irresponsibles who still rant of hate and revenge, asserting that they do not at all represent the sound convictions of the German people."

Wants All to Sign.

Referring to Germany's decision to sign the compulsory arbitration clause of the world court of justice, Dr. Stresemann expressed the hope that other big nations would follow suit and that France would not insist upon the reservation which she had hitherto attached to her signature of this clause.

INCREASE IS URGED FOR G. A. R. WIDOWS

Grand Rapids, Mich., September 16.—(AP)—A resolution instructing the pension committee of the G. A. R. to work for an increase in the allotment of widows of war veterans more than 65 years of age to $50 per month was passed at the closing session of the annual encampment of the organization here today.

A resolution providing that the committee urged an increase for the veterans themselves was tabled.

The veterans decided to continue holding their annual encampment and parade. If at any future time it is decided to discontinue the observance because of the age of the members, speakers indicated the work would be turned over to the Sons of Veterans organization.

A resolution providing for a joint reunion of the G. A. R. and veterans of the Confederate army was tabled, as was a proposal to bar the Ku Klux Klan from participation in G. A. R. parades.

Officers elected today are: Senior vice commander, Calvin A. Beard, of Buffalo; junior vice commander, Samuel E. Mahon, of St. Paul; surgeon general, Dr. A. H. Johnson, of Washington, D. C.; and chaplain in chief, J. Ing Gibson, of Dayton, Ohio.

John H. King, of Baltimore, was elected trustee for two years of the G. A. R. permanent fund, and Dr. Lewis S. Plischer, of Brooklyn, as trustee for three years.

ALLEGED PAY-OFF MAN IN LIQUOR PLOT ARRESTED

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Chicago, September 16.—Auguste Boechini, for the last six months sought by government officials on a charge of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law and for murder, was arrested today by Deputy United States Marshal Lyle D. Bennett.

Boechini is wanted in Memphis, where it is charged he was the pay-off man in a liquor conspiracy in which police and deputy sheriffs are involved.

He is also charged with having killed a man in Memphis three years ago.

Fight on State Evidence Delays Trial of Duvall

Indianapolis, September 16.—(AP)—Trial of Mayor John L. Duvall, of Indianapolis, on a charge of violating the corrupt practice act was delayed today while attorneys argued over admissibility of certain evidence by the prosecution.

The jury was kept out of the court room during the debate.

The argument arose over the question of whether the state should be permitted to present testimony by which it hoped to prove that Mayor Duvall made "wholesale" offers of administration positions in case he was elected mayor in 1925.

Defense counsel contended such evidence would be prejudicial to the jury and that it was inadmissible because only one specific charge was made in the affidavit on which Duvall was brought to trial.

Harvey W. Bedford, an organizer for the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, was ready to testify as to other alleged deals made by Duvall for political support if the state won its point.

Chicago, September 16.—Auguste Boechini, for the last six months sought by government officials on a charge of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law and for murder, was arrested today by Deputy United States Marshal Lyle D. Bennett.

Boechini is wanted in Memphis, where it is charged he was the pay-off man in a liquor conspiracy in which police and deputy sheriffs are involved.

He is also charged with having killed a man in Memphis three years ago.

Fight on State Evidence Delays Trial of Duvall

Indianapolis, September 16.—(AP)—Trial of Mayor John L. Duvall, of Indianapolis, on a charge of violating the corrupt practice act was delayed today while attorneys argued over admissibility of certain evidence by the prosecution.

The jury was kept out of the court room during the debate.

The argument arose over the question of whether the state should be permitted to present testimony by which it hoped to prove that Mayor Duvall made "wholesale" offers of administration positions in case he was elected mayor in 1925.

Defense counsel contended such evidence would be prejudicial to the jury and that it was inadmissible because only one specific charge was made in the affidavit on which Duvall was brought to trial.

Harvey W. Bedford, an organizer for the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, was ready to testify as to other alleged deals made by Duvall for political support if the state won its point.

RAILROAD MAN URGES
USE OF CUT-OVER LAND

Pointing out that the railroads of the country use approximately one-fourth of the annual lumber cut, and buy each year about two and one-third billion feet of lumber and one hundred and fourteen million cross ties, for which they pay $233,000,000, J. E. McNeely, chief tie and lumber supervisor of the Atlantic Coast Line, Railroad company, of Wilmington, N. C., in an address Thursday before members of the Southern and Southwestern railway clubs, meeting at the Ansley roof garden, urged the need for utilizing the idle cut-over lands of the south for timber production.

The railroads, Mr. McNeely said, were pioneers in wood conservation and have for 25 years been active in developing methods of wood preservation. They have also done much to eliminate the losses usually held unavoidable in the manufacture and use of lumber. It was pointed out, and are saving millions of feet of lumber formerly burned or discarded. A number of lantern slides showing utilization, storage, preservation, and other treatment of lumber and forest conditions on the Pacific slope were shown during the talk.

Natural conditions in the south make timber growing relatively cheap and easy, Mr. McNeely said. Many fast-growing trees that produce strong and desirable wood, a long growing season that allows maximum production, and an unlimited area of land not needed for cultivation combine to make the south the most favored section of the country for timber production, he declared. Protection from forest fires is the main requirement for timber growing and the fact was emphasized that even light fires, commonly supposed to do no damage, kill young trees and make it impossible to reproduce the forest.

Railroad attention to wood preservation in this country, the speaker said, began in 1828, when treated chestnut ties were laid on the old Northern Central railroad in Maryland. Today most of the first class railroads use some form of treatment to preserve their cross-ties, he pointed out.

Regarding the possibilities for reclaiming lumber used in various railroad operations, Mr. McNeely stated that in 1926 the Atlantic Coast Line, by careful attention to this factor, saved 1,502,000 feet. B. M. lumber that was formerly burned. The total net saving amounted to $48,139.

ALVIN YORK FILES
SUIT FOR $750,000

Jamestown, Tenn., September 16 (AP)—"In behalf of all school children of Fentress county, Tennessee, and the Alvin C. York Industrial institute," as the writ recites, Sergeant Alvin C. York has filed suit for $750,000 damages against the Bank of Jamestown, W. L. Wright, J. T. Wheeler, L. O. Froge, W. J. R. Case, George L. Stockton, W. J. Jones, H. N. Wright, W. E. Potter, J. W. Evans and James S. Linder, all residents of Fentress county.

It is claimed by the sergeant in his declaration that the parties cited have, as an organized body, so opposed all his drives in behalf of the school he hoped to found to aid children of the mountains that they have been rendered failures.

Sergeant York, in a document that recites in cold-blooded legal phraseology the struggle into which he has put his whole time and strength, claims that his school, "the idol of his life," has been hindered and delayed in its construction. He declares that the group he has sued has "hindered him and his co-workers and annoyed him and caused him to suffer much humiliation and mental pain and anguish."

False and unwarranted statements have been made, he says, which have caused him to obtain the use of the $750,000 and caused the state of Tennessee to be defamed by the Fentress county court, as by the filing of a $100,000 writ in personal damages for the school. The latter sum, he says, he "actually went out in the world and raised on the lecture platform."

Not satisfied with preventing drives from being a success, York claims the defendants have used the newspapers against him and his life's work. He declares they have caused libelous articles to be published against him. Slander has been resorted to, not only of him personally, but of his business. These attacks and the activity of the group he has sued have now impaired the hope of completing the school, the hero of the Argonne sets forth in conclusion; so, in behalf of the citizens and taxpayers of the state, and of the school children of Fentress county, he asks damages.

One-Arm Drivers, One-Eyed Cars Under Strict Ban

A more stringent police ban was announced Friday on one-eyed motor cars, one-arm driving, left hand turns, and darkened tail lights.

In response to numerous complaints originating from these sources, Chief of Police Beavers instructed his traffic squad to be on the lookout for offenders, while at the same time calling attention of the motoring public to the new signs at important points of intersection.

To facilitate the movement of traffic through downtown streets many plainly legible signs have been set up, and persons who cannot read them will be assessed a part of the installation.

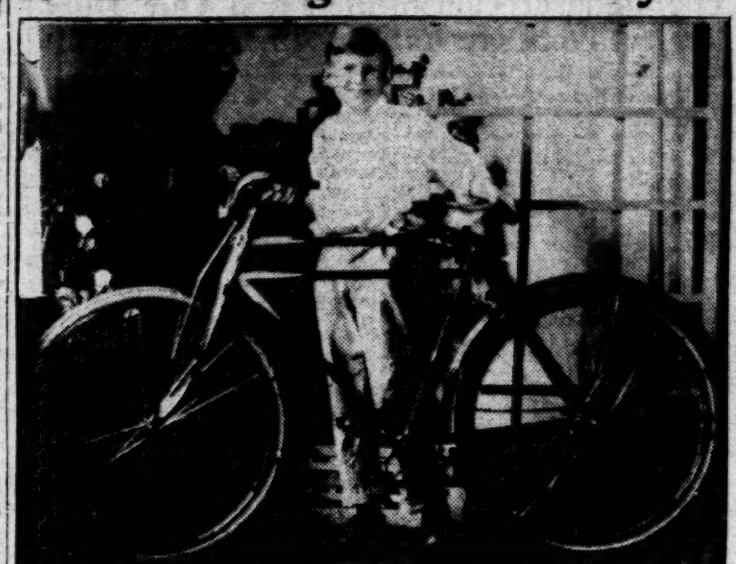

Boy's Spare Time for 2 Weeks
Is Exchanged for Bicycle

George Mims, of Fitzgerald, and the handsome Premier bicycle he won in The Constitution's free offer to boys and girls.

How would you like to have a shiny new Premier bicycle that would cost you $50 if you bought it at the store?

George Mims, of Fitzgerald, Ga., has one—he got it without spending a penny—and here's what he says about it:

"I want to thank The Constitution for the splendid bicycle sent me for securing 15 new six-months subscriptions."

"Tell the rest of the little boys and girls how easy it is to win one. Just get 15 of your friends who are not now taking The Constitution to agree to take it for six months. I am a boy of just 10 years of age, and it took me less than two weeks of my spare time to get up the desired number of new subscriptions for The Constitution."

"They are easy to secure if you cost. Lieutenant Blazer, of the traffic department, announced. Interested parties have made a check of illegal left-hand turns and improperly lighted cars passing one corner, and discovered that a staggering number of automobiles were either improperly handled or improperly equipped."

In the interest of safety, joy riding drivers should keep both hands on the wheel and their attention on the road, officers say.

NEGRIT HIT BY TRUCK IN CRITICAL CONDITION

Claude Malcomb, negro, of 22 Butler street, is in Grady hospital in a critical condition as the result of injuries received early Thursday morning when struck by a truck operated by A. R. Smith, of 724 Curran street. The accident occurred at Tanner and Port streets.

The negro, according to reports of Patrolmen Cason and Davis, was playing with several other negroes on Tanner street, and ran suddenly into the fender of the truck, coming behind two parked automobiles.

A case of reckless driving against Smith was docketed by the officers.

Prize of $100
For Lakewood
Spelling Winner

A cash prize of $100 and the title of Georgia's champion speller for 1927 awaits the boy or girl last left standing in the annual state-wide spelling bee, which will be a feature at the Southeastern fair on children's day, Monday, October 3, according to Oscar Mills, secretary-manager. Ten other prizes ranging from $50 to $8 will be awarded to the best spellers.

Although the contest will be held in conjunction with the twelfth annual fair, at Lakewood park, it will be under the direct supervision of three of the state's best known educators, with Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Georgia Tech, as chairman, M. L. Duggan, state superintendent of education, and Professor Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of Atlanta's schools, will be assistants to Dr. Brittain in conducting the contest. Miss Mary Postell, assistant superintendent in Atlanta's schools, and Jere A. Wells, head of the Fulton county school system, will be the referees.

Under the rules of the contest, each county in the state can have one representative, either a boy or girl, who will be chosen in a contest held in the respective county and under the supervision of the county school superintendent. An alternate will also be named in each county.

The contest is open to all grammar or high school students in the state and contestants must be enrolled as a school student during the year 1927. The words will be given out by members of the committee in charge and will be spelled orally.

Words will be given out from the Dictionary of Words, book No. 2, the state text by Sarah Louise Arnold, to start the contest and if any contestants are left standing when that list is exhausted the 1927 high school spelling list will be used.

After those two lists have been exhausted and contestants still remain standing, an old-fashioned blue back speller will be brought back into service as a last resort in determining Georgia's champion speller.

MONKEY LEAVES HOME, BITES WRONG YOUTH

Joco, a monkey with misbehaving teeth, has chewed himself out of a happy home, James M. Simerson, Georgia Tech sophomore, said Friday.

It wasn't so bad when he nipped his master, but Joco tried out on a policeman's son. And that was his big mistake.

Five stitches it took to dress 13-year-old Glen Lawson's wound at Grady hospital, attendants said.

Anyone in the state for a good monkey might apply to Mr. Simerson, at 579 Fowler street, N. W.

OFFICERS INVESTIGATE BOMBING OF HOME

Detective Lieutenant T. D. Shaw has been assigned to investigate the explosion which rocked the Jones and Simpson street neighborhood early Friday morning. A heavy charge of dynamite was touched off beneath a house in the rear of Councilman Ellis B. Barrett's residence at 240 Jones avenue, according to police reports.

The house at 339 Elm street, the windows and plastering of which were shattered by the discharge, was occupied by Homer Hardin, a negro.

A DAMNABLE SITUATION.
Instead of acquitting itself of issuing a cotton price "prediction" which shot the market down $6.50 a bale and cost the growers millions of dollars in a single day, the confession of a publicity clerk in the federal department of agriculture establishes the fact that its bureau of farm economics has been guilty of an inexcusable, indefensible and a shameful attempt at market manipulation, whether wittingly or not.

There are no good results from the production guesses. They have varied as much as two million bales in a single year. They cannot possibly be correct. They are frequently in antagonism to the genuine statistics issued by the census bureau.

But to say the least estimates. Until the law is repealed or amended they will be issued.

But there is no law to justify an "opinion" from the bureau, or from any person connected with it, that the price of cotton is going lower or going higher.

What does the bureau of farm economics know about it? What does a chief of the bureau, or the assistant chief, or the publicity director know about it?

The admission that the crop "prediction" was prepared for a small group and not for general circulation showed the party guilty of its preparation either a knave or a fool, as so caustically characterized by Senator Harris.

It would indicate both. Why should a private group, or any small group, be favored with government market price predictions, without authority of law, and affecting a commodity to the extent of millions of dollars daily?

The clerk who assumed the responsibility for the confession in the absence of his chief and assistant-chief knew that it would be impossible to withhold any market estimate or price "prediction," with the official government stamp upon it, from the pit. It would have been as easy to turn back the waters of the Mississippi flood.

Cotton is sensitive to every government advice. It is perhaps more so this year, than ever before on account of the uncertainties as to production, produced first by the unproductivity of the Mississippi delta, and second to the ravages of the weevil. The statistical position is strong. Consumptive demands are increasing. There is no sense in a bearish government estimate, and certainly there is little less than actual crime in the government issuing an opinion as to future prices of the staple, either bearish or bullish.

Senator W. J. Harris, of Georgia, is to be heartily commended for the prompt manner in which he has dealt with this inexcusable action of the department of agriculture.

Secretary Jardine has assumed the responsibility and ordered a probe, with the statement that such a thing will not occur again. But that does not relieve the damage that has already been done.

THIS CONSTITUTION DAY.
This is "Constitution Day," a day in our national calendar that should be as popular and sacred as is our ever-celebrated Independence day. The latter signifies our liberty as a people, but the former marks the birth of the union of the states into a coherent and constituent of the nations of the world.

The constitution created the union and but for it there could be no union of the states today and none in the future, for it has been an axiom with competent constitutional statesmen for a century that if the constitution should be resubmitted to the people it would never again be ratified, either in its original or in its present amended form.

Therefore, every real lover of our American union and our constitutional structure of government should be thankful for the work accomplished on this day 140 years ago. What the nation is now, what it means to us and our posterity, and what it teaches and tempers in world affairs in a fluxing age of civilization, are the direct fruits of the faiths and standards embodied in our great constitution.

In this day our most eminent leaders and patriotic associations are committed to the more general teaching and understanding of the contents of the inspired national charter. They deem it essential that our people should be acquainted more intimately with the fundamental principles of the government in whose functions are involved their freedom, their peace, their lives and prosperities.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

Berlin's Flags.
The controversy over the flag question in Berlin in which New York's mayor figured illustrates the semi-official character of many great cities in Germany. Practically the last stronghold in Germany of the large horde of anti-semitic fanatics, and a very few great international hotels, in the big cities. In the Wilhelmstrasse walls of dining and reception rooms the anti-semitic fanatics are covered with portraits in oils of Hohenzollern emperors by one or two Bismarck and Moltke pictures. At least 50 per cent of Germany's hotels have remained unaltered in this respect. It is still the custom in German country places for the village inn to rank as center of impulse of the community's social life. The young people dance there regularly on Sunday afternoons and evenings, the schoolmaster, pastor and doctor meet their evening glass of beer or regular dinner at the inn, and the inn goes gradually to a hotel of increasing proportions. The old traditions of a more or less official meeting place have been kept up, leading hardly anywhere where represents local emotions.

It is creditable to them that the legislators of Georgia, one of the creators of the constitution, have enacted that the wonderful document shall be taught in the public educational institutions of the commonwealth.

PASSING OF MYER STERN.
Athens loses one of its most prominent and useful citizens in the death of Myer Stern.

He was kind and considerate to every University boy, and the hearts of thousands of them who have matriculated during the past half century will be saddened at the news of his passing.

He has for many years been one of the leading citizens of Athens and every worth-while movement had his earnest support. He had extensive business connections, and his enterprise was outstanding.

PROTECT ALL OR NONE.
That readjustments in the tariff laws should be the dominant issue in the next democratic national campaign is the idea and advice of former Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock, of Nebraska. By the same token he urges an avoidance of personalities between pre-convention candidates.

Under all circumstances personal and factional issues involving religious views and other wholly personal views, the rights to which are constitutional guarantees, should be avoided.

In fair and equitable tariff revision the democrats have a real opportunity. The agrarian west and south are dissatisfied with the existing law which makes the farmer buy his supplies on a protected market and sell his export supplies in free-trade foreign markets.

It is unjust. It operates against the fundamental builders of the nation's wealth to a greater extent than against any other group. It operates against every wage-earner, who is a consumer and not a producer.

A strong bread and butter platform will bring a tremendous independent vote and make democratic success possible.

Readjustments in tariff rates should place all groups of producers, whether manufacturers or producers of raw products and of farm commodities, on a parity. If the one industry is protected then the commodity of the farmer should be protected.

A ruthless tearing down of all tariff walls would be unwise. A free-trade policy would be unwise. The democratic party does not stand for free trade but for fair and equitable tariff laws that do not penalize any one group.

The democratic tariff policy in 1923 should be based upon scientific economic grounds of uniform fairness.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

Berlin's Flags.
The controversy over the flag question in Berlin in which New York's mayor figured illustrates the semi-official character of many great cities in Germany. Practically the last stronghold in Germany of the large horde of anti-semitic fanatics, and a very few great international hotels, in the big cities. In the Wilhelmstrasse walls of dining and reception rooms the anti-semitic fanatics are covered with portraits in oils of Hohenzollern emperors by one or two Bismarck and Moltke pictures. At least 50 per cent of Germany's hotels have remained unaltered in this respect. It is still the custom in German country places for the village inn to rank as center of impulse of the community's social life. The young people dance there regularly on Sunday afternoons and evenings, the schoolmaster, pastor and doctor meet their evening glass of beer or regular dinner at the inn, and the inn goes gradually to a hotel of increasing proportions. The old traditions of a more or less official meeting place have been kept up, leading hardly anywhere where represents local emotions.

It is creditable to them that the legislators of Georgia, one of the creators of the constitution, have enacted that the wonderful document shall be taught in the public educational institutions of the commonwealth.

PASSING OF MYER STERN.

A DAMNABLE SITUATION.
Instead of acquitting itself of issuing a cotton price "prediction" which shot the market down $6.50 a bale and cost the growers millions of dollars in a single day, the confession of a publicity clerk in the federal department of agriculture establishes the fact that its bureau of farm economics has been guilty of an inexcusable, indefensible and a shameful attempt at market manipulation, whether wittingly or not.

There are no good results from the production guesses. They have varied as much as two million bales in a single year. They cannot possibly be correct. They are frequently in antagonism to the genuine statistics issued by the census bureau.

But to say the least estimates. Until the law is repealed or amended they will be issued.

But there is no law to justify an "opinion" from the bureau, or from any person connected with it, that the price of cotton is going lower or going higher.

What does the bureau of farm economics know about it? What does a chief of the bureau, or the assistant chief, or the publicity director know about it?

The admission that the crop "prediction" was prepared for a small group and not for general circulation showed the party guilty of its preparation either a knave or a fool, as so caustically characterized by Senator Harris.

It would indicate both. Why should a private group, or any small group, be favored with government market price predictions, without authority of law, and affecting a commodity to the extent of millions of dollars daily?

The clerk who assumed the responsibility for the confession in the absence of his chief and assistant-chief knew that it would be impossible to withhold any market estimate or price "prediction," with the official government stamp upon it, from the pit. It would have been as easy to turn back the waters of the Mississippi flood.

Cotton is sensitive to every government advice. It is perhaps more so this year, than ever before on account of the uncertainties as to production, produced first by the unproductivity of the Mississippi delta, and second to the ravages of the weevil. The statistical position is strong. Consumptive demands are increasing. There is no sense in a bearish government estimate, and certainly there is little less than actual crime in the government issuing an opinion as to future prices of the staple, either bearish or bullish.

Senator W. J. Harris, of Georgia, is to be heartily commended for the prompt manner in which he has dealt with this inexcusable action of the department of agriculture.

Secretary Jardine has assumed the responsibility and ordered a probe, with the statement that such a thing will not occur again. But that does not relieve the damage that has already been done.

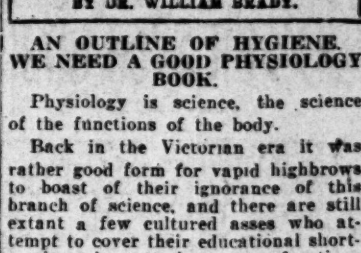

THIS CONSTITUTION DAY.
This is "Constitution Day," a day in our national calendar that should be as popular and sacred as is our ever-celebrated Independence day. The latter signifies our liberty as a people, but the former marks the birth of the union of the states into a coherent and constituent of the nations of the world.

The constitution created the union and but for it there could be no union of the states today and none in the future, for it has been an axiom with competent constitutional statesmen for a century that if the constitution should be resubmitted to the people it would never again be ratified, either in its original or in its present amended form.

Therefore, every real lover of our American union and our constitutional structure of government should be thankful for the work accomplished on this day 140 years ago. What the nation is now, what it means to us and our posterity, and what it teaches and tempers in world affairs in a fluxing age of civilization, are the direct fruits of the faiths and standards embodied in our great constitution.

In this day our most eminent leaders and patriotic associations are committed to the more general teaching and understanding of the contents of the inspired national charter. They deem it essential that our people should be acquainted more intimately with the fundamental principles of the government in whose functions are involved their freedom, their peace, their lives and prosperities.

EIGHT PRISONERS ESCAPE AT DALTON

Dalton, Ga., September 16.—(Special.)—Taking advantage of the absence of Sheriff W. C. Cline, of Whitfield county, who is in Atlanta as a witness in federal court, eight prisoners escaped from the county jail tonight. The escape was accomplished by the night and eight white prisoners escaped, and up to a late hour tonight none of them had been apprehended.

Those who escaped were Earl Whitener, who is alleged to have led the revolt; Lee Shumaker, Craven Cross, Pleas Durham, Hub Nix, C. B. Durham and J. B. Whitten, all of Dalton, and Robert Hodges, of Chattanooga. Shumaker and Nix were held on felony charges and the others were charged with misdemeanors and larceny. Some of the men were under sentence and some were awaiting trial at the October term of court.

Fox was "rushed," he said, when he entered the jail after supper to lock the prisoners in their cells for the night, they being allowed privilege of the runway in the jail during the day. He was relieved of the jail keys and his pistol.

Several prisoners who elected not to join in the mutiny attempted to aid Fox in resisting the onrush of men. There were 11 prisoners in the jail, it is said, 13 remaining after the delivery, including several women.

Deputy Sheriff Will Southern, assisted by local police, organized a posse and is in pursuit of the escaped men. It is thought the prisoners stole an automobile when they left the jail. Whitener, the alleged leader of the mutiny, is under sentence, having been convicted for violation of the prohibition law.

Fox was not injured, except for the jostling he received in resisting the prisoners.

FOUR YOUNG CANOEISTS ARE SAVED BY SHIP

S. S. Cananora, September 16.—(By Radio to The Associated Press.)—Four young canoeists who were blown out to sea from Sheephead Bay were rescued tonight by the crew of this ship after their craft had overturned and they were on the verge of collapse. The rescue was made in Amherst harbor.

The youths, George Burghmuller, Arnold Belmer, Herbert Parker and Thomas Brennan, had been clinging to their canoe for an hour before they were picked up at 8:45 o'clock. The youths, members of the Mir Mac Canoe club of Sheephead Bay, said that they had started out at 6 o'clock this afternoon and after coming about the bay for a while suddenly found that the strong wind was carrying them out to sea. The farther out they got the rougher the water became, and about an hour before they were rescued their canoe overturned.

If Alortox Fails In Toxaemia Call a Doctor

This new preparation acts with time-clock precision in 60 to 90 minutes; gives one thorough elimination and no more; does not interfere with duties, habits or diet, and guarantees to remove, in one action, more poison from the system than any other known formula, leaving you buoyant, vivacious and alert, mentally and physically.

These are but a few of the many wonderful advantages of this latest discovery known as "Alortox," which flushes the alimentary tract and re-establishes a natural, healthy liver and bowel action, and is much quicker, more palatable and far more effective than calomel, oils or other nauseating cathartics that merely clog the liver and work you to death.

Alortox also alkalizes the system and thoroughly cleanses it of the poisons that cause auto-intoxication. Get a bottle from your druggist, and if you are not satisfied after taking one dose, get your money back. If your druggist cannot supply Alortox, send direct upon receipt of price, 65c. Penal bonds covering the use of specially deatured alcohol have been extended to permit a $1,000 bond to cover the withdrawal of 500 gallons during a 30-day period. Formerly a $1,000 bond only covered a 200-gallon monthly withdrawal.

Another change in the regulations, of a minor nature, specifies products made from deatured alcohol, including hair tonics, perfumes and toilet waters must not be sold in containers exceeding one gallon in capacity.

COOLIDGE BOOSTS TAX-CUT PROGRAM

Washington, September 16.—(P.)—President Coolidge, after going over the tentative government budget with Director Lord, has reached the conclusion that increased appropriations planned for the war and navy departments next year ought not to jeopardize a substantial tax reduction.

His view was disclosed today at the white house where it was said also that he had decided there was no necessity for special legislation to carry out the program of the Mississippi flood project.

Flood Control.

Secretary Hoover advised the president that relief work can be taken care of until January 1 with funds now on hand, and Secretary Davis, of the war department, told him today that the final report of the board of army engineers and the Mississippi river commission on flood control could not be completed until November 15 or December 1.

For this reason the president feels that congress would be able to make a headway toward enactment of flood legislation before the December session, although he expects congressional committees to do considerable preliminary work before then in the preparation of legislation.

While flood measures are expected to get support of the administration for early consideration, it is expected that the bill will not be passed until the next session.

Representative Tilson, republican, leader in the house, put forward this suggestion which has met with the approval of Speaker Longworth.

Despite the statement of Budget Director Lord after his recent visit to a total tax cut, Coolidge said that big increases in appropriations were faced next year, administration leaders have been looking forward to a total tax cut, but he said that the $300,000,000 and they were encouraged by Coolidge's views as outlined today at the white house.

A total tax cut would be added to the treasury during last fiscal year and although present predictions are that this will not be approached by more than half during this fiscal year there have been feelings among administration leaders that a heavy tax cut could be made.

Little Elaboration.

White house elaboration on the view of the president that expected army and navy expenditures should not interfere with tax reduction was limited, although it was said that he feels some additional expenditures should be authorized.

Prospective increases were described as a non-party nature. It is expected, however, that the navy will require a considerable increase in appropriations to carry through a shipbuilding program.

ATLANTA FIRM GETS WESLEYAN CONTRACT

Macon, Ga., September 16.—(P.)—The Southern Ferro Concrete company, of Atlanta, was awarded the contract for the building of a new unit of Greater Wesleyan college here today, the cost of this unit to be approximately $800,000.

The building to be constructed under this contract are the language hall, science hall, gymnasium and power house. It was decided not to build the administration building at a separate site, but to build it in connection with the language hall for the administration offices for the time being.

The O'Pray Plumbing and Heating company, of this city, got the contract for plumbing and heating, approximately $150,000.

When all units are completed the Greater Wesleyan will cost $3,000,000. The firm that obtained the contract today also has the contract for the first unit, construction of which is well under way.

WOMAN IS FOUND ON FLOOR OF HOME LASHED TO DEATH

Elmont, N. Y., September 16.—(United News.)—Her body marked with long red welts, Mrs. Frank Young, 38, the wife of a laborer, was found dead Friday night on the floor of her home here.

The woman apparently had been lashed to death with a bull whip.

Her son, Francis Young, 13, startled neighbors just before the discovery with a weird tale of seeing a strange man standing over his mother with a long whip which rose and fell sover her.

With Patrolman Jones of the Nassau county police, several men of the neighborhood, followed by their wives, entered the Young cottage, they found only the body. The woman was dead. His father had not yet returned from work, the boy said.

Rev. A. J. Moncrief, Jr., Decides To Remain At Avondale Church

The Rev. Adie Jarrett Moncrief, Jr., pastor of the Avondale Baptist church, according to announcement from the church, has decided to remain as pastor following an urgent appeal and invitation from the church body to do so.

Mr. Moncrief had planned to leave for the Southern Baptist Theological seminary at Louisville, Ky. It is announced that he will enter the Columbia Theological seminary, now located in Decatur, for special study while he remains at Avondale church.

Expressions of appreciation from the people of the church attest their loyalty to Mr. Moncrief and their pleasure in his decision to remain as their pastor. The church has grown rapidly in recent months and the prospects are for greater increase in the future, officials say.

ALABAMA DECLARED GUIN AT DECATUR

Decatur, Ga., September 16.—(Special.)—Harold Almond, of Atlanta, was found guilty of involuntary manslaughter by a DeKalb superior court jury tonight in connection with an automobile accident on the Covington road last April 14 in which two persons were killed and several injured.

Daniel, John E. Hutchison will pass sentence Saturday morning, he stated when the verdict was read in open court late tonight.

Almond was tried on a charge of murder, but the verdict was for a misdemeanor, punishable either by fine or imprisonment. The verdict of the jury read: "We, the jury, find the defendant guilty of involuntary manslaughter in the commission of a lawful act without due caution and circumspection."

Those killed in the accident were Charles E. Drew, 23, of Atlanta, deputy internal revenue collector, who was riding with Almond, and H. H. Daniel, 47, of Lithonia, driver of the car that crashed with the Almond automobile.

The accident occurred late one afternoon about two miles beyond Avondale Estates. Almond was driving toward Decatur and Daniel was going east when the two cars crashed head-on on a curve.

All the occupants of both cars were rushed to Atlanta hospitals, Drew and Daniel dying that night.

Almond was charged with driving an automobile recklessly and at an excessive rate of speed; also that he was driving on the wrong side of the road when the accident occurred.

It was the contention of Almond that a clear view of the road was obstructed by the dust raised by three cars that just passed and that he was unable to see the Daniel car. It was also pointed out that he spent seven weeks in the hospital as result of the crash.

Solicitor Claude Smith was assisted in the prosecution by Judge D. P. Phillips, and the defendant was represented by Attorney William Selby Howard and Bond Almond, of Atlanta.

The trial started Thursday morning and continued until Friday night, and the judge's charge the jury received the case at 10:30 o'clock, returning a verdict about an hour later.

ALABAMANS HELD ON LASH CHARGES

Birmingham, Ala., September 16.—(P.)—W. J. Worthington, alleged purchaser of the property of Arthur Hitt, negro, who was said to have been whipped and frightened into selling a valuable tract of land, was arrested tonight after he had been indicted for kidnapping in connection with the Hitt flogging.

Worthington is the second man to be arrested following action of the federal grand jury, which last night returned 18 indictments in connection with the masked floggings.

Louis C. Albright, said to be Worthington's lawyer, was taken into custody last night after he had been indicted for kidnapping in connection with the Hitt flogging.

Albright was held under $25,000 bond. Bond for Worthington was set at $30,000.

Evidence given the grand jury tended to show that Hitt was flogged and frightened into disposing of a 60-acre farm for a sum far below its value.

Third Man Taken.

Charles J. Scale was the third man to be arrested on charges of kidnapping following his indictment by the grand jury. His bond was set at $25,000.

The warrant said Scale was held in connection with flogging of John Bolton, of Tarrant City, who was whipped twice within the last two months.

Eugene Doss, Ira Davis and Copeland were arrested late this afternoon on indictments returned by the federal grand jury yesterday.

Doss and Copeland are charged with complicity in the whipping of John Bolton and Davis was arrested in connection with the flogging of John Bolton, Ala., several months ago.

Doss, who was the first man convicted for the flogging of Jeff Calloway, has been in custody since his arrest pending his appeal from the sentence of eight to ten years in the state penitentiary for kidnapping.

His was indicted by the Blount county grand jury in connection with the Calloway case, but disappeared, only recently returning and giving himself up to the authorities.

All three were held under $10,000 bond.

TAXING ZONE FORMED TO WIDEN WHITEHALL

Establishment of a taxing zone to assure widening of Whitehall street from Windsor to McDaniel street, acceptance of the report on Peters street right-of-way for widening and a territory from Park street to Walker street and transaction of a mass of other detailed business featured the semi-monthly meeting Friday afternoon of the streets committee of city council.

Both the widening papers will be offered to commit Monday night for action, as will others calling for establishment of sidewalks on Courtland street from Edgewood avenue to Forrest avenue and on Spring street from Tenth to Peachtree street.

Predictions were that work on both widening projects will be begun early next week.

According to plans, Whitehall will be widened 20 feet between Windsor and McDaniel streets, by taking practically the 20 feet from the east side of the street. The property holders on the west side reimbursing those on the east side for half of the area taken. Euston county and the city will join in the project.

OLSHINE COMPANY OPENS STORE HERE; ATWELL MANAGER

Attended by a big crowd of interested shoppers, the Olshine company, which operates a large chain of stores

J. H. ATWELL.

In Tennessee and Kentucky, Friday opened its Atlanta store at 125 Whitehall street with J. H. Atwell, widely-known clothing expert of Atlanta, as manager.

Souvenirs were presented to those attending the opening day's event at the Olshine store, and Mr. Atwell received the congratulations of his many friends upon his connection with the new concern.

Mr. Atwell has been engaged in the clothing business here for more than ten years past. During this time he has filled important executive positions with two of the city's largest credit clothing stores and has made a wide circle of friends.

Painting a picture of the Christ as the greatest love the world has ever known, and a nationally-known scholar, plant and all other kinds of life, Judge Roscoe Luke, of the Georgia court of appeals, Friday night continued his dramatic portrayal of Jesus as the savior of the world before a large audience at St. Paul Methodist church.

The speaker, himself a leading Baptist layman, is appealing to all masses of people to turn to the "way of light" and accept Christ as their personal Savior, and success is crowning his efforts and throngs attend the service.

Judge Luke, the Rev. Dr. B. F. Fraser, pastor of St. Paul church, and Charles Butler, evangelist, son of a nationally-known scholar, Friday night expressed gratification at the "visitation of the Holy Spirit" in Atlanta, and as the first week of the meetings drew toward its close, predicted that even greater and more pronounced results will favor the "Jubilee for the Master" next week.

No more meetings will be held until Friday night, when a special meeting for men only at the church at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and the regular service at 7:30 o'clock Sunday night.

Large crowds have taxed the auditorium of the church to capacity during the week despite the heat wave, which has held the entire south and middle west in its throes during the past few days, and Judge Luke has continued his pietization of the crucified Christ as the savior of man.

Girl Disguises As Man To Rob, True Bill Found

One of the true story magazines probably would pay a great deal for the story of the first attempt of Mary Cavens Barnes, of 308 Washington, S. W., at impersonating a man to carry out a hold-up, judging from the information on file in the solicitor general's office regarding this young girl.

Mary was indicted Friday by the Fulton county grand jury together with Everett Smith on charges of robbing Mike Hudson, Jr., of $1 on the night of September 2 at the end of the Piedmont car line, Lester Leon Fowler, of 387 Hill street, S. E., is already under indictment in the same case.

Mary's story might be entitled "Profit vs. Loss, or Nipped in the Bud," for the little escapade in which she and her alleged accomplice, Fowler, engaged in netted them only a dollar against an outlay of $4 for the hired automobile necessary for the job.

According to the story as it came from Solicitor General John A. Box, Mary, who gave her address as 411 West Ontario street, gave Fowler the money for the car, and also furnished the disguises. Mary dressed in a boy's suit and together with Fowler, drove out upon the career of depredation and crime. They met up with Mike Hudson, Jr., and offered him a lift. Mary refused the offer with thanks, and thereupon Fowler pressed the invitation with a gun.

Hudson came across with $1.10, but requested that they return the dime for fare. This was done, and the "big hold bandits" drove on. When Smith heard the results of the first night's operations, he expressed the opinion that better luck would follow.

All of the participants are of high school age, it was stated.

Andrew Dailey, Henry County Citizen, Dies

Andrew Berry Cox Dailey, 72, of McDonough, Ga., pioneer citizen of Henry county, died Friday night at a private hospital following a brief illness.

He was a member of Methodist church near Flippin, Ga., and had been actively identified in religious circles the greater part of his life.

In addition to his widow, Henrietta Smith Dailey, he was survived by three sons, O. B. and W. C. Dailey, of McDonough, and the Rev. Sam Dailey, of Loco, Ga., and three daughters, Mrs. W. H. Rowan, of McDonough; Mrs. G. H. Bailey, of Lincoln, Ga., and Mrs. H. Snow, of Clermont, Ga.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed late Friday night.

SOVIET WILL SEEK PACT WITH BRITAIN

London, September 16.—(P.)—The Westminster Gazette says that it has good reason to believe that the soviet government will attempt to reopen negotiations in the near future for the reestablishment of normal relations with Great Britain.

The paper says the basis of the negotiations will be settlement of the claims of British creditors where the soviet government hopes to obtain British credits at normal rates.

The paper adds that semi-official soundings already are being taken in the matter.

Four Dry Agents Held in Killing

Washington, September 16.—(P.)—Four federal prohibition agents were arrested tonight on the charge of murder in connection with the death of the wife of their son, Amos, which occurred at their home near here August 31 under suspicious circumstances.

An investigation is also being made by officers in the death of the couple's two eldest sons, James Hayes, 18, and Amos Hayes, 25, which occurred a few days prior to the death of the wife of Amos Hayes. Both the sons also died at the residence of their parents on a farm seven miles from here.

An order for the exhumation of the two sons' bodies was authorized by a jury convened by the Early county coroner here today and according to all reports the bodies of the sons are being disinterred tomorrow morning.

The services of pathologists have been obtained from Atlanta and they will make an analysis of the viscera of both the sons in an effort to find out if any poison traces similar to those found in the viscera of Mrs. Hayes can be discovered. According to the report of physicians who made the autopsy on Mrs. Hayes, two kinds of poison were found in the viscera, each one powerful enough to cause death.

The elder Hayes is a prosperous farmer and has been a resident of Early county for more than 25 years. He is now in jail here and his wife is held in confinement in the Randolph county jail at Cuthbert.

Insurance policies totaling several thousands of dollars were issued on the lives of the two sons, with the parents as beneficiaries. In connection with the death of Mrs. Hayes, his wife was named as joint beneficiary with the man's parents.

A 15-month-old grandchild, the daughter of the dead parents, is still at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hayes, where it is being cared for by two younger children of the confined parents, a son, 19, and a daughter, 17.

Attempts of Mob to Storm Florida Jail Is Blocked

Fort Myers, Fla., September 16.—(P.)—The only mob for more than 25 years, but tonight to quell a disturbance growing out of the unsuccessful efforts of a mob to storm the Lee county jail in search of a negro who had been arrested, a 50-year-old hit woman in her home on the outskirts of the city.

At 12 o'clock everything was quiet, although there seemed no indication of further trouble.

The negro, J. A. Jenkins, was identified this afternoon by the woman through a picture.

Eagan Park Citizens Protest Annexation

"Should the movement to restrain the city of Hapeville from exercising civic authority over the vast outlying territory recently incorporated by the municipality, fail of success through legal action, an effort will be made by residents of the annexed districts, who outnumber voters of Hapeville proper about 10 to 1, to wrest political domination from existing powers, move the city hall outside of the old city boundaries into the new territory and expend the bulk of city taxes in these districts."

This was a statement of H. W. Crankshaw, real estate dealer of Eagan Park and leader in the fight against annexation, before residents and property owners of the districts affected, at Harrison Road Baptist church, Friday night.

Gathered to protest the act of the last session of state legislature which amended the Hapeville charter to include the outlying industrial and agricultural sections, residents of these districts were addressed by fellow citizens and representatives from large industrial interest with plants located in the boundaries. The protesters brought the mass meeting to a close by signing petitions voicing objections to the existing conditions and pledging support in the campaign to combat the annexation.

The petitions are to be used in filing a bill of injunction against Hapeville, enjoining it from putting into effect its municipal franchise of the new territory until the next session of legislature, when a concerted attempt will be made to appeal the charter amendment. Mr. Crankshaw said. Circulation of these petitions will be continued throughout the week with another mass meeting to be held at 7:30 o'clock next Friday night, in the Mount Zion church, on Stewart avenue, Mr. Crankshaw announced.

Residents of the Forest Hill Park and Hammond Park sections are expected to be gathered at this meeting. G. B. Lanier, of the Piedmont cotton mills, chairman of the organized movement to fight the Hapeville extension, presided at the gathering, which constituted the second mass meeting called in protest of the legislative enactment. A promise on the part of Governor Hardman to bring the objections before a special session of the general assembly, should one be called, has been obtained. Mr. Lanier stated, upon the condition that leaders of the opposition present the petitions to him giving evidence of the people's unwillingness to be incorporated in the Hapeville municipality. Governor Hardman, it was asserted, signed the annexation measure when sold by certain parties that the people of the territory surrounding Hapeville desired to be included in the city bounds.

Other speakers at the meeting included W. D. Singletary, of the Southern Chemical Agricultural corporation; D. N. Morris, of Forrest Hill Park, and L. L. Lee, of Hammond Park. In his talk Mr. Lettner stressed the point that no person he had spoken to was aware of the movement on foot in the past legislature to extend the Hapeville boundaries, and that all of the city fathers of Hapeville he had addressed, none was willing to accept responsibility for the move. "A large number of the people living in the annexed districts moved there to be out of the city limits because they could not afford to own homes inside the city limits," Mr. Lettner said. "They are enduring the hardships of pioneering in these sections and should not be forced to pay expenses created by the city of Hapeville."

BAINBRIDGE COLBY ASKS PARIS DIVORCE

Paris, September 16.—(AP)—Bainbridge Colby, former American secretary of state, filed an application for divorce in the Versailles tribunal some time ago, it was learned today from reliable legal sources.

The date of the final hearing could not be learned today.

Paris dispatches in May announced that Bainbridge Colby had authorized his attorney to institute divorce proceedings against his wife, who before her marriage in 1895 was Nathalie Seigwick, of Stockholm, Mass.

CAROLINA TEXTILE PLANT PLANNING DOUBLE CAPACITY

Rutherfordton, N. C., September 16.—(AP)—Details of for more than doubling the capacity of its plant were announced today by directors of the Ellenboro Manufacturing company of Ellenboro, near here, construction of additional buildings to start within a few days.

The move was made necessary, the officials pointed out, by the sharp growth of their textile business within the last few months, reflecting the prosperous condition of such enterprises in the south generally.

The main new building under the expansion plan will cover a ground space of 200 by 75 feet, adding about 40 looms and 2,500 spindles. There are at present 30 looms and 2,500 spindles at the plant.

CHEMIST'S DEATH LAID TO TIGERS

Baltimore, September 16.—(AP)—The third murder within less than a month to be attributed to bootleggers has been revealed by the discovery of the headless body of J. Athey Kerner, 22-year-old chemist and graduate student of Johns Hopkins university, who disappeared June 9.

Kerner's body was found in a state forest reserve near here by a boy camper. One of Kerner's friends, Edward A. Rupp, declared he believed the chemist was murdered by bootleggers to whom he had refused to give a formula for removing the poison from industrial alcohol.

Andrew Kerner, his mother, also said she feared bootleggers were responsible for his death.

Vernon Selbe, a boy still in his teens, told police that he and his cousin, Gordon Selbe, some time ago had found a human head while camping near the spot where the body was discovered. He said they had placed it in a box outside their tent to dry. Later the head, in the cheek of which was a long gash, was stolen from the box, he said. Police believe it was that of Kerner.

Identification of the body was made shortly after its discovery late yesterday by means of letters found in the pockets of the weatherbeaten clothing.

Commenting on his friend's disappearance, Rupp said the bootleggers were after him all the time. Working with alcohol and knowing so much about it, he had perfected the poison extraction formula.

A little more than three weeks ago two men—John C. Harrah and Chester Pugh—died here from bruises and burns after being beaten and left to die in a burning house. Police believe they were victims of a bootleg war.

Boy Scouts today turned over the head to police. They found it in the woods, they said, and believing it was used by some medical student, kept it as a curio.

PARENTS OF BOY HELD IN MURDER

Cedar Rapids, Iowa, September 16.—(United News.)—The parents of Lyle Messner, 14-year-old boy charged with the murder of a 6-year-old girl here, were arrested today for conspiracy to obstruct justice in assisting the boy to escape.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Messner were questioned tonight by County Attorney Walter J. Barnhaver, who expressed the belief that they knew the whereabouts of the boy.

Kathleen Forrest, whose battered body was found Wednesday in the cellar of a vacant house, was buried today as the search for Lyle extended to the woods near here.

Police believe young Messner, who has been missing 72 hours, is hiding in the wooded regions near this city. The dull high school boy, an expert woodsman, is said to have boasted to his schoolmates that he could live for weeks in the forest.

State Agent Thomas Avery returned tonight from an unsuccessful search for the lad. Avery had gone to Cedar Rapids, Iowa, where a youth answering Messner's description, was reported in a deserted country shack.

Mr. and Mrs. Messner were arrested shortly after an autopsy report by Coroner R. A. Corphal, of Linn county. The verdict held that Kathleen had been beaten, and then shoved into the cellar of the vacant house, where she was found Wednesday. She had not died from blows on the head, but had smothered to death, the coroner said.

Statements of Kathleen's little friends pointed to the boy as the possible attacker. Virginia Gudusz, 7, who was playing with Kathleen on the evening of the murder, said Messner came along and offered Kathleen a nickel to go into the cellar with him.

Kathleen was dragged into the cellar by Messner after she had refused, Virginia said.

SCHOOL BOYS AID IN MURDER SEARCH

BY GEORGE FRY.
(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Hammoncton, N. J., September 16.—Sixty schoolboys constituted the unusual police auxiliary that was called into service at Hammoncton today while the police held Mrs. Margaret Lillendahl, 42, as a material witness to the murder of her husband, Dr. William Lillendahl, 72, of Vineland.

The police continued for hours to ask questions of the widow. She stuck to the original story of a crime. But the minute examination of the crime scene, on a lonely road three miles from Hammoncton, developed the interesting facts that footprints were to be found save the of a woman and the ground gave every evidence of its willingness to record any other steps that might have been taken.

In addition to the mystery of 11 footprints, the police had been unable to find the .32-caliber pistol with which Dr. Lillendahl was shot in the right temple and right ear. I was in this quest that the police called upon the school children to form the unusual posse consisting of that was scouring through the undergrowth within a radius of half a mile of the murder scene. But the revolver has not been found when darkness ended the search tonight.

The tangled story of the crime found another knot in the statement that came to the officials that a man had been ordered out of the aged doctor's office at Vineland a week ago because of his attentions to Mrs. Lillendahl.

Much importance was hung to this event. Police and many state troopers went on a wide search for the man, who was supposed to have figured in the home scene. Mrs. Lillendahl's family retained Charles Phillips to represent her, and all preparations were made to protect her from any undue activities on the part of the investigating police.

The original story of the widow, that she was riding with her husband when two negroes held them up and forced the doctor to turn his automobile into a lonely path, was repeated again and again. She told how the men had robbed her husband of his wallet containing $200, and had then started to tear the rings from her fingers. Then, she said, her husband came to her aid and was killed. Her former narrative of having been attacked and robbed was carefully reiterated.

And, in consequence of the statement, all of the surrounding country was combed for suspects who might answer her vague and uncertain description. Two negroes were taken at Merchantville and then released.

As a secondary theory, the police went over the business career of the doctor, from the time he practiced drug healing in New York city, on to the time when he left his Vineland home on his last automobile trip. He had many drug patients, to be sure, and there might be some drug addict had killed him came in for considerable attention.

FORSYTH ROAD MEET TO BOOST ROUTE 42

Jackson, Ga., September 16.—(Special.)—A mass meeting of the county and city officials of Butts county, Jackson, Monroe county and Forsyth will be held in Forsyth on September 20, to organize for the paving of state road No. 42 from Atlanta to Macon. Interested citizens of the two counties are expected to present a large number of good roads enthusiasts is expected.

An order for the survey and location of this highway from Indian Springs to Forsyth has been issued and work is expected to begin within a short time. The road is already surveyed and located with the exception of the link from Indian Springs to Forsyth.

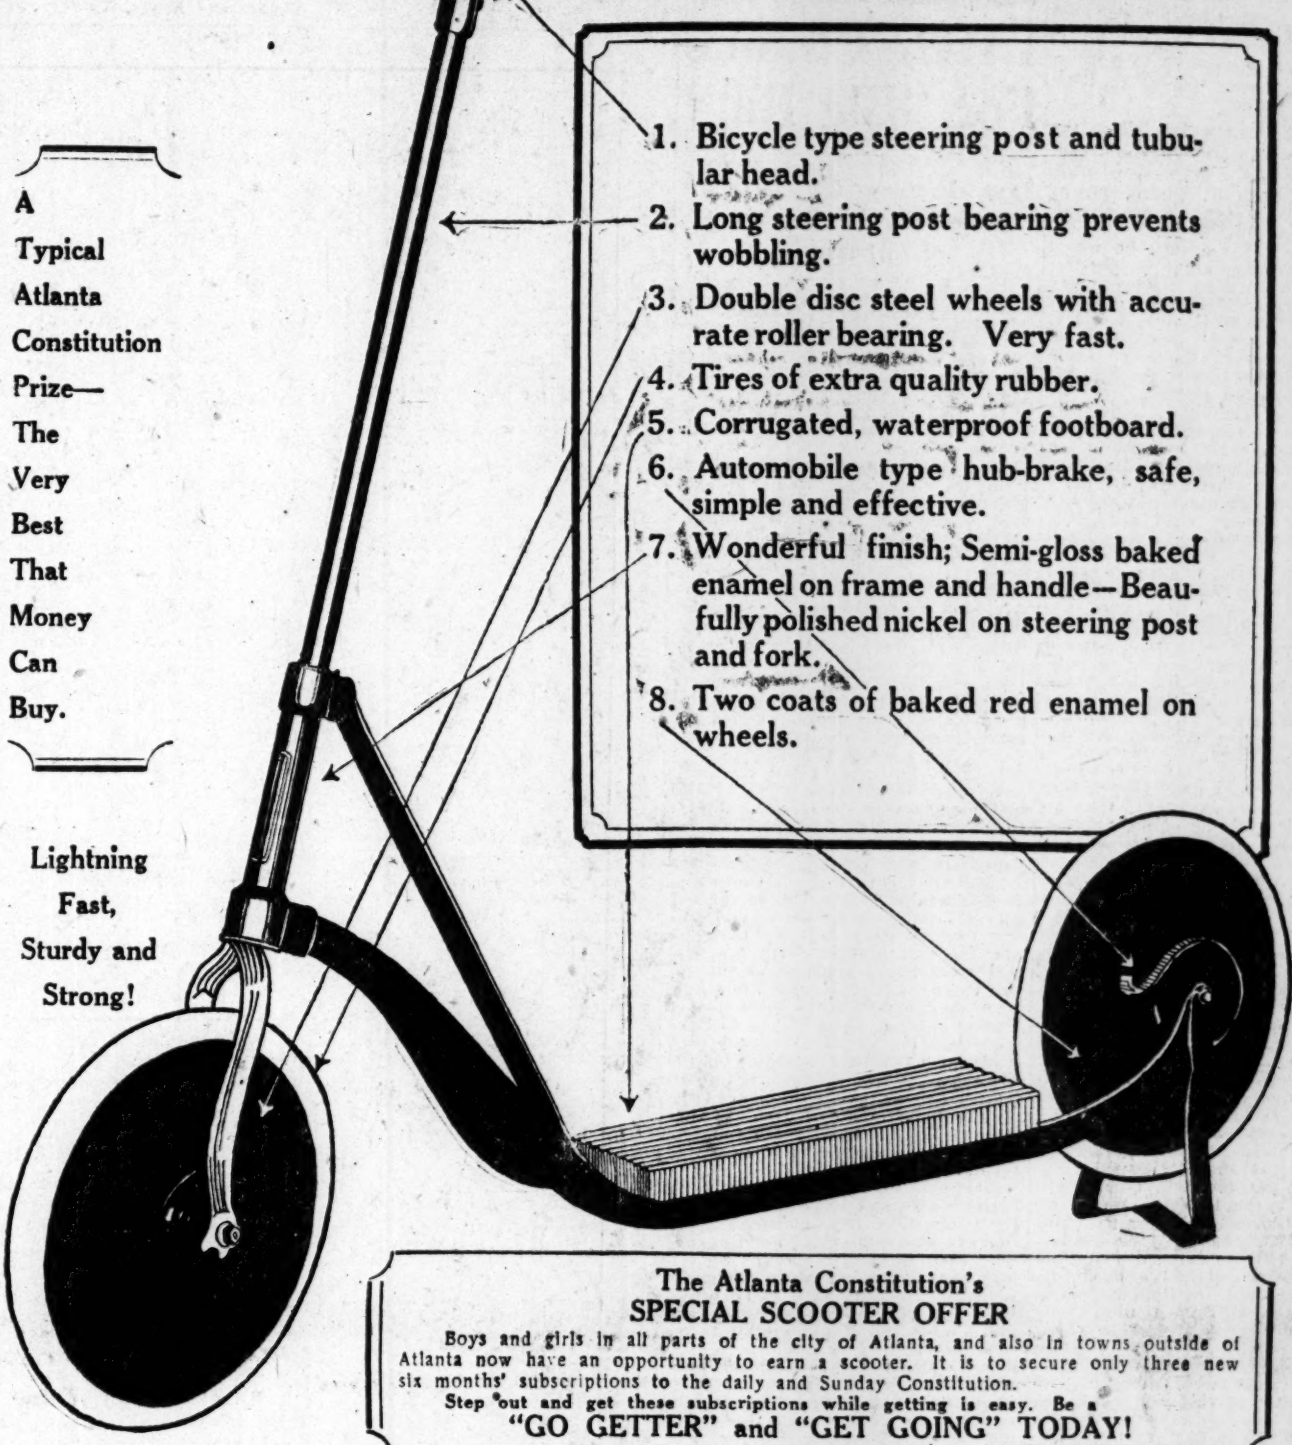

County commissioners of Butts and Monroe counties are said to be ready to begin grading the highway as soon as the survey is completed. Henry county is grading its part of this highway and Butts county is now grading between Jackson and Indian Springs and the contract for paving will be awarded within a few weeks, according to announcement here.

This highway between two of Georgia's largest cities and the paving of this route will undoubtedly increase traffic through this section materially.

A great deal of interest is being manifested in this project on the part of citizens in all the counties through which the highway will pass, and the meeting in Forsyth on September 20 will do much to stimulate the early completion of this highway through central Georgia, it is pointed out.

Murdered sleep

SLEEP that brings no rest to ease and strengthen. Empty sleep—that drives tense nerves and aching muscles back to weary bodies! No wonder people crack and break when precious sleep is murdered . . . the pity is they so seldom realize the trouble.

What a tragedy, indeed, that so few realize the dreadful suffering constipation causes! How many sleepless nights and lifeless days could be remedied if they but knew!

Constipation ruins health and wrecks beauty. It saps strength and destroys energy. It sickens the body and causes disease after disease. And it could all be so easily relieved—so surely prevented! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation safely, promptly. To prevent it ever getting its hold!

Why part-bran products fail!

ALL-BRAN has "bulk." This bulk absorbs moisture and carries it throughout the digestive system. And it gently distends the intestines purifying, removing poisonous wastes. In a part-bran product the quantity of bulk is so small that there is seldom enough to do this work. That is why doctors recommend ALL-BRAN—because it is 100% bran and performs a 100% work!

No need for habit-forming pills!

How different from dangerous pills and drugs—which become useless unless the dose is constantly increased, and sometimes cause actual injury! ALL-BRAN is delicious with milk or cream—and add fruit or honey for an extra treat. Let it soak a few moments in the milk to bring out all its nut-like flavor.

Serve it with other cereals. In soups. Try the recipes on every package. Eat two table-spoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal.

Don't accept a part-bran substitute. At best it can be but partially effective. Insist on genuine Kellogg's—the original ALL-BRAN. Sold by all grocers. Served at hotels, restaurants—on diners. Made by the Kellogg Company in Battle Creek, Mich. Write for free "Treatise on Constipation."

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold with this definite guarantee: Eat it according to directions. If it does not relieve constipation safely, we will refund the purchase price.

Miss Breitenbucher To Honor Prospective Buds of 1927-28

Reverting to a custom established many years ago in Atlanta, the prospective debutantes of 1927-28 will gather at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon, with Miss Isabel Breitenbucher, president of last year's coterie, at her home on Fifteenth street. Misses Mary Louise Brumby, Anne Kess-nich, Anne Spalding, Beulah Perkins, Mary Harris, Jane Small and Mary Inman Pearce form this season's group. A number of other lovely Atlanta buds will be added to the list of those meeting today to form the organization and make plans for a brilliant winter season.

Dinner-dances at the social clubs will bring the week-end to a close most fittingly, many parties honoring visitors in the city, among the most prominent being Misses Robbie and Annette McLean, of Douglas, who will be central figures in a dinner given at the Piedmont Driving club.

Miss Josephine Richardson and her brother, Lee Richardson, will entertain a group this evening at the Driving club. The dinner will be in the nature of a farewell party, as Miss Richardson leaves the latter part of the month for St. Timothy's, near Baltimore, Md., where she will resume her studies, and Mr. Richardson will leave Monday for Avon, Conn., to continue his course at Avon Old Farm school.

Peachtree Road Methodists Pay Tribute to Rev. E. H. Wood

The entire membership of Peachtree Road Methodist church paid tribute Tuesday evening to Rev. E. H. Wood, a retired minister of the North Georgia conference, on his 70th birthday. When the church was organized in 1925, although he was retired, Dr. Wood consented to serve until a regular pastor could be assigned, and he continues to aid in establishing the church. Tributes were paid by the pastor, Rev. Thomas H. Shackelford; former pastor, Rev. C. A. Norton; Rev. W. L. Price, presiding elder, and Bishop Warren A. Candler, who joined the conference with Dr. Wood in 1875, and Mrs. Candler also responded.

Dr. Wood has been pastor of 102 churches and organized or in some way served others, making a total of 175 churches touched by his influence, while the present pastor's father and mother became converts to his earnest type of Christianity at Franklin in 1888, training their son to be the spiritual and efficient minister serving this church today.

Instead of personal gifts the members of the church presented a purse to be used toward a memorial in the new church honoring Dr. Wood. The women of the church added $100 for the purpose of placing the name of Mrs. Wood beside that of her husband.

The infant class sang a birthday song and presented a candle-light cake. Little Martha O'Neal presented a birthday card from the missionary society and songs were sung by the girls and a boys' quartet.

MUSICAL PROGRAMS FEATURED AT CHURCH

SERIES OF SERMONS WILL START SUNDAY

PAGEANT TRYOUTS SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Rev. C. R. Stauffer will begin a series of Sunday morning sermons at the First Christian church, having as his first sermon "The Good Sower." In the afternoon at 4 o'clock the young people of the church will meet to adopt a new plan of organization for the young people during the coming year. The Business Women's circle of the Women's council, under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Burke, will meet Monday evening at 6 o'clock at the church. First church is preparing to entertain the State Convention of the Christian Churches October 18 to 20.

Dr. Houghton is planning a wide-awake fall program at the tabernacle. The service next Sunday evening is planned especially for young people, the sermon subject being "If I Were Twenty-one Again." Pastor Houghton has obtained from 20 of Atlanta's prominent citizens answers to the question: "What would you do if you were twenty-one again?" and he will base his sermon on these replies.

E. T. SMALL CALLED TO DECATUR CHURCH

The Decatur Christian church has called to the pastorate Edward T. Small, of Emory university. Mr. Small has been assistant to the minister of the First Christian church, of Atlanta, for the past year, during which time he has had a prominent part in young people's work. He was recently elected president of the Georgia Young People's Conference of the Disciples of Christ. With the coming of the new minister the Decatur church will resume its regular services, both morning and evening. Mr. Small will preach Sunday morning on "The Kingdom of God." His subject at the evening service will be "What Is Man?" The regular mid-week prayer meeting will be held Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.

Weak, Pale

"THE LEAST THING TIRED ME"

"I BEGAN taking Cardui when I was sixteen years old," says Mrs. Virgie C. Milner, of Silsbee, Texas, whose picture is printed above. "I was in very poor health. I lost in weight, and was so weak I could scarcely drag one foot after the other, and I had no interest in anything. I was pale and spiritless. The least thing tired me, and I had no endurance at all."

"My mother got Cardui for me, and I began to take it. I soon began to feel better. I gained in weight—from 94 pounds to 120. My appetite got better. I looked well."

"I took several bottles of Cardui at that time."

"Since I was married, I got to feeling bad. I felt weak and lifeless. I got my husband to get Cardui for me, and it was not long until I was feeling like myself again."

"I have recommended Cardui to a great many of my friends, and I gladly do so again, for I grew strong and well after I took it."

THE GUMPS—LOST AND FOUND

They Wouldn't Believe

By ROY VICKERS.

SYNOPSIS. On the way to Donald Brierley's house for luncheon Connie Blane, Donald's fiancée, tells her friend Olive Weston that Donald stands a chance of inheriting a half a million from the estate of old Harrowby, a friend of Donald's father. Olive and Connie share a flat in London. Olive is secretly in love with Donald but sincerely pleased at Connie's good fortune in winning him.

Randle and Querk, solicitors handling the Harrowby estate, are crooked and plot to cheat Donald Brierley of the fortune by having a spurious heir appear whose claim is prior to Donald's. In the midst of the plotting Augustus Brierley, Donald's father, presumed to have died when the Titanic sank, calls on Sandie. Querk suggests to Sandie that he invite Brierley to Harrowby house and there, with the assistance of Querk's tool Wode, dispose of Brierley.

Connie decides to visit her old nurse, who is now caretaker of Harrowby house. Mrs. Jones is out but Connie finds the key and lets herself in to wait for her. She hears strange noises in the library and going to investigate she sees Mr. Sandie and another man kill Mr. Brierley, whom she recognizes from his portrait. Rushing out of the house Connie stumbles into Mr. Querk. While telling her story Querk pushes the bell and sends a signal to the murderers. Connie sees a policeman and calling him the three proceed to the library and Connie asks Querk to open the secret panel in the wall where she had seen the man place the body. It is empty. Querk accompanies her to the police station, where she tells her story to the police superintendent. Querk intimates that she imagined the scene and in exasperation Connie goes to see Olive, who believes her story.

Querk requests Sandie to come to the superintendent's office and he presents him with the police officer's account. The two lawyers proceed to Wode's office where old man Turle and his son, the spurious heir, await them. The old man dies just after they walk into the office and Querk leaves by the back door.

The next morning Connie calls on Querk and meets young Jones in his office. She recognizes him as her old nurse's son but does not know that he has been posing as Henry Turle, Jr. Querk later pretends that Connie implied she saw young Jones. He tells Olive that Sandie is about to bring a criminal suit against Connie unless Olive, as her nearest friend, has her committed to a private institution, which he recommends.

AN APPALLING TASK. As Olive entered the flat she heard the sound of a drawer being lifted out. The door of Connie's room was open. She was packing.

"Hullo!" said Connie. She seemed in much better spirits; her greeting was almost cheerful. "I didn't think you would be back. Aren't you going to the office at all today?"

"No, I'm on strike," answered Olive. "May I come in?"

"Of course. But everything's rather upside down. I've fixed on a place at Broadstairs that sounds quite nice. I rang up the station inquiry and there's a good train at 10:45 o'clock tomorrow morning. I hope they can give me a room facing the sea."

Olive braced herself. Somehow she must accomplish at once the appalling task of telling Connie that she would not be allowed to leave by that train. "I'm afraid I've got to drop a bomb, Kiddie," she began. "Do you know who was speaking to me on the phone just before I went out?"

"No," answered Connie. "But whoever it was I don't see how it can affect my holiday."

"It was Querk."

Connie said nothing. She was folding an under slip; she continued to fold it and placed it with a certain deliberation in the tray of her leather cabin trunk.

"He wanted me badly," Sandie had put the wind up to him good and hard.

"To do with me?"

"Yes."

"Then why didn't he tell me? Why were you dragged into it?"

There was no mistaking Connie's tone. It was as if she had asked, "Why do you drag yourself into my affairs?"

"Can't think! Must be my charm of manner!" said Olive diplomatically. "Sandie is bringing an action against you for criminal libel—on the strength of the letter you wrote to Scotland Yard about him."

Connie paused in her packing. There was no doubt that she had been startled.

"Why didn't Mr. Querk tell me?" she asked stubbornly.

"He thought it might be a bit of a shock to you. He wanted me to break it to you and discuss what is to be done."

Connie was kneeling by the trunk. She sat back on her heels.

"Olive, dear," she said patiently, "can't you understand that I don't want to discuss—that affair—with you? It's simply that it's impossible to discuss it with you, for a bit—"

Even before she began to talk about it because we're talking about different things. I'm talking about something that actually happened. You don't believe that. Do, please, keep out of it."

"I'm so sorry, so terribly sorry to have to talk like this," she went on, as Olive gave an exclamation of pain. Tears were streaming unheeded down her cheeks and Olive's eyes were misty.

"I know you think I'm ungrateful for all the things you've done for me in the past. I, Olive, I'm not—I'm not, but I just can't feel much one way or the other now! I suppose it's what they call shock. That's why I must go away from you for a bit—away from Donald, away from everybody. I'd love to come back afterwards if you still want me, and go on as we were before. Only we will just never mention—that happened yesterday."

Olive cleared her throat and blink-

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY The Vicksburg Mine (Continued)

AFTER COMPLETING THE UNDERGROUND PASSAGEWAY THAT LED FROM THE UNION TRENCHES BEFORE VICKSBURG TO A POINT DEEP UNDER THE STRONGEST OF THE CONFEDERATE REDOUTS, THE FEDERAL SAPPERS PLANTED 2,200 POUNDS OF POWDER AT THE FURTHER END. THIS DONE, STRANDS OF FUSE WERE LAID AND THE MINE SEALED.

AT 1:30 P. M. ON JUNE 28, 1863, THE MINE WAS EXPLODED. TO THOSE WATCHING BREATHLESSLY FROM THE UNION TRENCHES IT APPEARED AS THOUGH THE WHOLE MOUND ROSE SLOWLY IN THE AIR AND THEN SUDDENLY IN A DENSE CLOUD OF DUST AND FALLING OBJECTS.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

WHEN THE MINE WAS EXPLODED, MOST OF THE DEFENDERS HAD FALLEN BACK TO OCCUPY A SECOND LINE OF EARTHWORKS. HERE THEY MADE A DESPERATE STAND. AFTER THE LOSS OF MANY MEN, THE FEDERALS SUCCEEDED IN FORTIFYING THEMSELVES IN THE CRATER, BUT FAILED TO WIN THEIR WAY INTO THE FORT.

METHODISTS PLAN ORPHANS' WORK DAY

Macon, Ga., September 16.—(Special.)—Saturday, September 17, has been named as "work day" throughout the territory of the South Georgia Methodist conference.

A series of inspirational meetings addressed by men who have been reclaimed through the Salvation Army will be launched at the Salvation Army industrial home, 256 Simpson street, Sunday morning with Jacob Hirschler as the first speaker on the Southern Baptist convention with Staff Captain W. H. Range, commander of the social service and industrial department.

Regular religious services are part of the army's program for men who have appealed for charity and are being trained in a new start in life as self-supporting citizens in the industrial home.

SALVATION ARMY TO HOLD SERIES OF NEW MEETINGS

The Atlanta Baptist Sunday School association have agreed to observe their schedule for next week. On Tuesday evening, the intermediate conference will be held at the Baptist tabernacle at 8 o'clock. The subject will be "The Blue and Gold Seal banquet" by the Rev. J. L. Jackson, pastor of the Macon Orphanage.

Keith's Georgia.
The current bill of "Unit Show" vaudeville at Keith's Georgia closes tonight with the present feature film "The Gingham Girl." Starting Monday Herman Timberg, writer and producer of Broadway hits and a noted dancer, will present his latest novelty, "The Laugh Factory," built in five scenes, each a different style "factory" for the creating of entertainment. On the screen Florence Vidler, four other acts are on the bill while the Loew feature picture is "The Bugle Call."

Capitol.
Atlanta has its last chance today to get the biggest laugh of the current vaudeville season in watching the screaming act of Raymond Bond and Helen Sullivan at the Capitol theater. These two artists present a rustic pair newsworthy and newly arrived in a big, flash city hotel. They are on the stage about 20 minutes and during that time there are exactly 1,200 laughs.

Loew's Grand.
Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle, famous funmaker, will appear personally at four performances Saturday at Loew's Grand theater where he is the headline attraction on an excellent bill of vaudeville. Four other acts are on the bill while the Loew feature picture is "The Bugle Call."

Loew's Grand.

The local engagement of "The Big Parade," the stupendous film classic of the world war, will begin at Loew's Grand theater with a midnight performance which will start at one minute after midnight Sunday. On the week days "The Big Parade" will be presented at 11, 1, 3, 5, 7 and 9 o'clock. Doors will open at Loew's Grand at 10:30 o'clock each morning. This is the first time "The Big Parade" has been offered at popular prices. John Gilbert, Renee Adoree and Karl Dane are stars in this masterpiece. All the effects used in the New York production and the original musical score will be used in the presentation in Atlanta.

Howard.

Today is the last chance to see "Underworld" at the Howard theater. The story deals with two crooks and their love for the same woman. This picture is indescribable and must be seen to be appreciated. It has the distinction of breaking the house records of the Paramount theater in New York and is now playing a long run engagement at the Rivoli. "Gems of Jazz," with Al Short, holds the stage part of the program was about one week at the Howard will be "Loves of Carmen."

Rialto.

"The Last Outlaw," a corking western, closes today at the Rialto theater. Gary Cooper starred and Jack London and Betty Jewel featured in Paramount's latest open range drama. In it, Cooper assumes the role of sheriff in a town which is overrun by rustlers and cattle thieves. At first he isn't quite able to find out who the honest men are.

Ponce de Leon.

Rin-Tin-Tin, gallant dog star of the cinema, is featured in "While London Sleeps," which is playing for today only at the Ponce de Leon theater. "While London Sleeps" is considered the finest picture that the versatile Rialto has ever made, and he has a role in the film that is unlike any he has ever done before. He is seen as the dog of London's most dangerous crook, and Rinty succeeds in having him captured by the police after his crook master turns against him.

Madison.

For those who like western films spiced with a bit of mystery and intrigue, "The Silent Rider" at the new Madison theater in East Atlanta for today only will please to the utmost. It is a logical and well-told story in addition to possessing the fast-moving and shoot-em-up qualities of the true western.

Freedom is Asked for 3 Prisoners by Parole Board

Cleveland, Ohio, September 16.—(AP)—The parole board at Atlanta penitentiary has recommended paroles for Joshua E. Russell, former prohibition director of Ohio, his chief clerk, Merle B. Copeland and Warren E. Darnett, Columbus (Ohio) attorney, all of whom were convicted in a liquor conspiracy case. It was learned today at the federal building.

The three men were convicted here in June, 1925, on conspiracy charges growing out of the diversion of 22,411 gallons of pre-Volstead whiskey from the warehouses of the Hayner distillery at Troy, Ohio. They were not taken to the penitentiary until November 9, 1926, however, having lost in the circuit court of appeals.

Russell formerly was a republican congressman and state senator.

FERTILIZER MEN
FORM ASSOCIATION

Sept. 5 Named 'Forget Me Not' Day by Mayor

In an effort to secure closer cooperation between the farmers of the state and the fertilizer manufacturers and mixers, a group of Georgia fertilizer men met at the Ansley hotel Friday morning and organized the Georgia Fertilizer Association.

The organization meeting, which was called by Walter W. Brown, Atlanta trade journal publisher, was attended by more than 30 manufacturers and mixers from Georgia and neighboring states.

George S. Cope, of the Chatham Chemical company, of Savannah, was elected president; Henry Lovorn, of Carrollton, and W. A. Rowe, of Commerce, vice presidents, and W. G. Hollingsworth, of Fayetteville, secretary-treasurer.

"We believe the organization of the fertilizer men of Georgia into a state organization will greatly aid in the advancement of the interests of both the farmer and the fertilizer men," said Mr. Cope in expressing the purpose of the meeting. "In the past we have had associations, but they have included only a part of the industry or have been inter-state in their activities."

In organizing a state-association we believe we can cooperate with each other and the state department of agriculture to an extent that will be helpful to ourselves and our customers, the farmers."

Mr. Cope was emphatic in his declaration that price-fixing would not be attempted by the association, but he said an effort would be made to get members to accept the code of trade practices approved by the department of justice of the United States, which has been in force in the National Fertilizer association since the first of the year.

The meeting to make a concerted drive for membership within the next 30 days. It is hoped, said Mr. Cope, that a 100 per cent membership can be secured among the resident fertilizer companies.

Those who were named to the executive committee of the organization included: Harry Hodgson, Athens; T. J. Reeves, Thomaston; Troy G. Chastain, Atlanta; M. H. Barnett, Washington; J. R. Shepard, Doerun; W. H. Hudson, Sylvania, and the four officers.

JURY DEADLOCKED, MAN GETS TIRED, PLEADS GUILTY

Danville, Ill., September 16.—While a jury in United States district court was still deliberating in case of acquittal, Leslie Jones, of Illinois, charged with using the mails to defraud, pleaded guilty to the charge.

He was fined $10,000 and elected to serve a jail sentence in lieu of payment. He is charged with operating a get-rich-quick scheme whereby he advertised home sewing work for women, obtaining a deposit from the victims which he did not return. Hundreds of housewives in many states are alleged to have been victims of the scheme.
